

Symposium 2003

Description

Strategies for Concerted Action by Government, Industry and Science. (2003)

Lectures given at the 2003 Marcus Wallenberg Prize Symposium in Stockholm on October 10, 2003.

Hexenuronic Acid – Evolution of the Discovery and the Importance of Collaboration among Government, Industry and University Scientists.

Anita Teleman, co-recipient of the 2003 Marcus Wallenberg Prize, STFI, Stockholm, Sweden

Success in Industrial Application of Hexenuronic Acid Removal Technology

Ergilio Claudio da Silva, Technical Manager, Aracruz Celulose S.A., Aracruz, Brazil

Path-breaking Research in the Pulp and Paper Industry – The Role of Science, Government and Industry; The Nordic Debate

Thomas Johannesson, President, STFI, Stockholm, Sweden
Kari Ebeling, Research Director, UPM-Kymmene, Helsinki, Finland

Advancing Science in Europe – Towards a European Research Area

Yves Birot, Dr., Member of the Prize Selection Committee, Villeneuve-lez-Avignon, France

Achieving the Forest, Wood and Paper Industry Technology Agenda in the United States

Delmar R. Raymond, Director Strategic Energy Alternatives, Weyerhaeuser Company, Tacoma, U.S.A